The cover of the magazine 'Batailles Aériennes' features a large, detailed illustration of a B-29 Superfortress bomber in flight. The aircraft is shown from a side-on perspective, flying towards the left. It has a silver finish with a dark blue star insignia on the fuselage. The tail section is marked with 'A', a square, '21', and the number '4623'. A cartoon character, a squirrel-like creature, is perched on the fuselage, holding a banner that reads 'THUMPER'. In the upper left corner, there is a smaller illustration of a Japanese Zero fighter. The background is a light blue sky with a white horizon line. The magazine's title 'BATAILLES AÉRIENNES' is prominently displayed in large, bold, red letters with a white outline. Below the title, the main article title 'B-29 SUR LE JAPON' is written in large, bold, red letters. Underneath that, the subtitle '4^e partie : Les débuts du XXI Bomber Command aux Mariannes' is written in smaller, black letters. The author's name 'par Bernard Baéza' is at the bottom left. The bottom right corner contains a barcode, the price 'L 15026-02-F; 12,50 € - RD', and the text 'PRINTED IN FRANCE'. The issue number '#092' and the date 'Avril mai juin 2020' are in the top left corner. A vertical label on the left side reads 'BATAILLES AÉRIENNES'.
